A Lay of the Law.

AIN—"When I was young I had no sense. Though I was old I had no sense. Nor cared a fig for great expenses. So I went to law, and I'm vexed to say That my luck was bad, and I won the day.

For if I had lost I did not intend On another trial more cash to spend; But as I had won, what could I do. When the loser appeal'd, but fight it through?

And so the matter was tried again, And my triumph did not maintain. For whereas one Judge had said white was white,

Two ruled 'twas a different color quite. This made me angry—I don't conceal— And I resolved to once more appeal. I had three more Judges in proud array Decided that white was gray.

Now since the court below had said That the white in point was a rusty red, The latest judgment was felt to be On the whole a verdict in favor of me.

Upon which at once my obstinate foe Declared to the Court of Appeals he'd go; And their Judgeship ruled by three to two That my white was really a Prussian blue.

So I lost my case, since there was, alas! No higher tribunal to say I was black; And a thousand dollars I had to pay Because at the start I won the day.

But though this sum of money I've paid The law to me no return has made. Except to tell me in accents drear That white is gray and blue and red.

Now, if 'tis truly a Prussian blue Why didn't the first Judge say so too? Or why couldn't I expense to have, At once the highest opinion grave.

For law is law, as it seems to me, And all of it fought first-class to be, Since suitors must be perforce befoul'd When courts but exist to be overruled.

BURDETTE ON BENEDICT ARNOLD.—Burdette, of the Burlington Hawkeyes, can be serious, and the sight of Benedict Arnold's house at Frederickton, New Brunswick, provoked him to moralize after the following manner:

"He lived a century too early, this man of hateful and accursed memory. Had he lived a hundred years later he might have committed treason most hateful, he might have forsworn himself in national council, and drawn his sword against the country that taught him to use it; he might have plundered the national treasury, robbed the government of arsenals and stolen its navy yard, fought for years against the flag that waved over his birth, and then—a tainted name? A traitor's doom? An accursed memory? A haunted, desolate life? Oh, no, Lord love you, simple minded patriot, nothing of the sort. He would come back and be elected to Congress, he would be a Senator, he would run the government, he would talk more loudly about the constitution he attempted to destroy, than the men who saved it; he would write books and defy public opinion, and the only thing about him to show that God hated him would be his blighted eye. If Benedict Arnold ever looks around this planet and sees how Jefferson Davis is getting along, it must make him feel that he is a martyr and a deeply injured man.

While working as an engineer on one of the railways, Mr. A. L. Holly made a wager with some of his fellows that he could run a locomotive a mile without fire, water or steam. The locomotive to be taken empty and cold from the shop and towed by another engine to a point at some distance on the road where a level stretch of track favored the experiment. Young Holly rode in solitary state on his cold locomotive to the scene of trial, and, unsuspected by his escort, so arranged matters that during the trip the motion of the drivers and pistons stored the boilers with compressed air. This gave him, by the time the destined point was reached, an accumulation of power by means of which he ran his mile and won his wager. —Scientific American.

EXERCISE.—Exercise is a necessity; it prolongs life, and greatly improves living, it better fits us for our duties; without it, we do not more than half live. He only who exercises sufficiently can know the joy of good health, good appetite, good digestion, and refreshing sleep. It causes the blood to circulate quickly, freely and equal, and will drive away the blues. It increases respiration, thus bringing a larger quantity of elixir of life, oxygen, to purify and vitalize the blood. It rounds and hardens the muscles, and educates them into every-ready, faithful and efficient servants of the will. It limbers the joints and strengthens every part of the body. It invigorates the mind, and renders it active and efficient in all its operations.

A bragging nobleman once said at the table that he had shot a buck through the hind hoof and called on his ready-witted serving man for corroboration. The servant, scratching his head, replied that the buck was scratching his ear at the critical moment, and added in an undertone to his master: "For mercy's sake, my lord, next time don't make it so hard to make both ends meet."

Too much dignity prevents a man from seeing the brickbats in his path.

A GOVERNOR'S BRIDE.

One of the editors of the Pawtucket Chronicle has been roaming around Portsmouth, N. H., and of course visited the old Governor Benning Wentworth mansion, and heard the attendant, among other things, say: "There is the first place before which Martha Hilton stood when she was married to Governor Wentworth," which leads him to remark: "We stand before the fireplace and see that it is covered by a fire-board and screen, and then are reminded of a story which we will relate. The marriage of the somewhat aged Governor recalled among some of the citizens of Portsmouth an incident which had occurred a few years before.

There was a boarding house on the ancient Pitt street, and one day the matron of it saw a careless, laughing, barefooted girl passing before her door, carrying a pail of water, and wearing a dress that but scantily covered her form. She knew her, and cried out to her, 'You Pat! you Pat! Why do you go looking so? You should be ashamed to be seen in the street.' 'No matter how I look,' was the pert reply; 'where these ragged are I shall wear lace, and ride in my chariot yet.' Years had rolled on meanwhile. The Governor had lost his first wife and his three sons, and was left widowed and childless. After having vainly striven to deprive another husband of his wife, he turns his glances to a young maiden who is doing the work in his kitchen and keeping his house in satisfactory order.

On a certain day, the Governor invites a party to dinner at his mansion, and among the rest of the guests comes, wearing his cocked hat, Rev. Arthur Brown of the Episcopal Church. Dinner is served with the profusion and variety that befit a Governor's table. The guests having been satisfied with their repast, the Governor quietly whispered to a messenger, and soon from the door in which we entered, Martha Hilton, the independent miss whose scanty garb had provoked the criticism above mentioned, comes blushing and takes her stand in front of the fire place. She seems regardless of the fire; does not appear to have any particular business there; she waits, and no guest has divined for what object she has come. She is twenty years of age, while the Governor's hairs begin to be whitened by the snows of sixty winters.

He rises from the table and says to the rector: "Mr. Brown, I wish you to marry me." "To whom?" asked startled pastor. "To this lady," was the answer. The rector stands confounded, but the bridegroom rouses him from his bewilderment by the imperious mandate: "As the Governor of New Hampshire, I command you to marry me." There is no delay now, and from this hour Martha Hilton becomes Lady Wentworth. Tradition declares that she made an excellent wife and retained the affection and esteem of her husband. On his decease, in 1770, he left her his entire estate. In her grief, after his departure, friends came to this parlor to proffer sympathy, and special consolation she found in the society of a retired colonel of the British army, who bore the name of Michael Wentworth, and who, ere long, became her husband.

JAY GOULD'S START IN LIFE.—The millionaire started as a self-made surveyor. He put his few rude tools in a wheelbarrow and trundled it from point to point, very much as Fisk peddled about the country in a wagon. One of the best maps of Delaware County has on the corner "Surveyed by Jay Gould." He had a knack for trading, was very sharp as a cattle dealer, and one time he got a lesson that lasted him for life. A farmer had a herd of cattle and Jay went to look at it. In the midst of the bartering a woman appeared who had a talk with the old farmer, and Jay catching a word now and then, heard her imploring him not to sell her cow. "I shall die if you do," she cried. "What's the matter with that woman?" asked Gould, in his usual cool way.

"Oh nothing; she's afraid I'm going to sell her favorite cow," old Palfall said. Gould thought he had found a prize, and demanded that the cow be brought out, and insisted when he saw her that she must go with the lot. The cattle were driven home, and Jay's father sent him to see what kind of a milk cow Palfall was. Jay had hardly stated himself before the cow kicked him, fell and stood sky-high, tore around the pasture, leaped the fence and started for home. Jay never bought anything from that day to this that a woman wanted to keep.

There are two ways of making money honestly, says an exchange. Yes, yes, by working for it or marrying a rich girl.

The beauty of a man's parting his hair in the middle appears to be that it gives both ears an equal chance to flap.

CLAY'S REPLY TO CALHOUN.

A Great Scene in the Senate.

Proceeding to the Senate; my attention was at once arrested by a voice that sounded like the music of the spheres. It came from the lips of a tall, slender man, with a fine, almost a flashing eye and a countenance that revealed every thought within. His voice was one of extraordinary compass, melody and power. There was not one word of rant, not one tone of vociferation in the very climax of his passion. He spoke, deliberately, and his outpouring of denunciation was as slow and steady as the tread of Nemesis. He gesticulated all over. As he spoke he, stepped backward and forward with effect, and the nodding of his head, hung on a long neck—his arms, hands, fingers, feet and even his spectacles and blue handkerchief aided him in debate. It was Henry Clay, engaged in a hand-to-hand struggle with another giant of the Senate, John C. Calhoun.

Clay had just taunted him with a rumor that he had left the opposition ranks, and struck hands with the administration. He (Mr. Clay) "would like to know what compromises had been made between the honorable Senator from South Carolina and the Kin-deepook fox" (meaning President Van Buren).

Calhoun replied: "No man ought to be more tender on the subject of compromise than the honorable Senator from Kentucky." Then, alluding to the compromises effected by Clay in the nullification crisis of 1850, he said: "The Senator from Kentucky was flat on his back. I repeat it, sir, the Senator was flat on his back, and couldn't move. I wrote home to my friends in South Carolina half a dozen letters, saying that the Senator from Kentucky was flat on his back and couldn't move. I was his master on that occasion. I repeat it, sir. I was his master on that occasion. He went to my school. He learned of me."

The two antagonists sat at the extreme end of the semi-circle rows of seats—Calhoun sitting in the front row, on the President's right, Clay in the rear row, on his left. "The honorable Senator from South Carolina," said Clay, "says that I was flat on my back, and that he wrote home to his friends in South Carolina stating that I was flat on my back and couldn't move! Admirable evidence this in a court of law! First make an assertion, then quote your own letters to prove it! But the honorable Senator says that he was my master on that occasion!" As he said this the speaker advanced down the aisle; directly in front of Calhoun, and pointing to him with quivering fingers, said in tones in which were concentrated the utmost scorn and defiance. "He my master! He my master!" He continued in louder tones, with his fingers pointed, and retreating backward, while his manner indicated the fondest abhorrence. "He my master!" he a third time cried, raising his voice to a still higher key, while retreating backward to the very lobby; then suddenly changing his voice from a trumpet peal to almost a whisper, which yet was distinctly audible in every nook and corner of the Senate chamber, he added: "Sir, I would not own him for my slave!" A hush of breathless silence; then followed a tempest of applause which for a while checked all further debate, and came near causing an expulsion of the spectators from the gallery. —Mathews Orators.

SUCCESS.—Success must be conquered. The man who is fit for a place is seldom neglected. He who ceases to strive in order that he may sit down and complain that he is slighted, overlooked, forgotten, may rest assured that his case will grow more and more desperate the longer he complains. Whining does not overcome neglect, but courts it. Courage, diligence, cheerfulness, faith—these are the traits which mark the successful man.

A correspondent of the London Times writes: "There is a simple method—apparently sufficiently well known—of discriminating between real and spurious diamonds. If the specimen is immersed in water, should it be a diamond, it will sparkle with almost undiminished light and brilliancy of color; but if it be spurious, whether paste or rock crystal, the 'fire' of the jewel will be completely quenched."

About the only things to look forward to in February are Washington's birthday and five Sundays. It will be a great month for dancing and court-ing.

Women wear lingerie now. They used to wear—well, call it underclothing.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1st, 1879.
A remarkable tribulation is among the Democrats as to the next campaign and singularly enough, no matter how they decide their differences, the result is equally justifying to Republicans. Thus the Indiana Democrats are quite sure that nobody but Hendricks can carry that State; Ohio Democrats think that nobody but a favorite son can carry that State, (they don't mention Thurman as often as they did); Tilden's folks assert boldly that neither Hendricks, Thurman nor any other Democratic can carry New York, nobody, in fact, except Tilden; and the late boomers say that none of these "cards" will do, but that other candidates must be trotted out. There can be no mistake that the Bayard boom is the strongest in the South, where all the Democratic electoral votes will come from. Probably Congressman Ellis of Louisiana told the truth, as nearly as any one can, when he says: "The Southern Democrats will be satisfied with Bayard, and will give him every Southern vote, or with Hancock, or Hendricks, or Judge Field, or David Davis, in short, the South will accept any good Democrat, with the single exception of Mr. Tilden, as I have said. The signs are very emphatic that the Bayard men have worked up his boom so industriously that they have almost driven Tilden out of the Southern field, and the literary bureau will have to be re-established to renew the Tilden boom. However, closing the subject as I began it, these little Democratic differences of opinion show us that none of the Democratic candidates can carry Indiana, Ohio, or New York, and therefore the contest is settled in advance by the Democrats themselves.
A project is on foot, and will have much support in Congress at the very outset, to establish a new Bureau, probably in the Interior Department, to have charge of mining affairs. There is great need of some government supervision in the matter. It would be the means of developing new mineral resources. The late developments in Virginia, North Carolina and other Eastern States, have heightened the desire among mining people for a Bureau which can direct the capital and labor into the proper fields, and be a protection to all concerned. Why should there be any opposition to this project? The Democrats here are growing anxious about their raids on the seat of Senator Kellogg, of Louisiana. They started with great confidence in the effort to unseat him, so as to make sure of a majority in the Senate in 1881, but they have weakened, the facts are so clearly against them. Washington is not a good place to work up political cases for the States just now. The at-ailing of the Maine Legislature was fixed up here, and there is great indignation among the faithful because the Maine Democrats didn't appear to have the courage to perfect the conspiracy.
Evidently, the Democratic majority are in no hurry to get at the public business this year. Usually the Appropriation Committees meet and get things in shape before the session opens, but this year nothing has been done, and the impression is that very little will be done before the holidays.

Representative Ford will introduce at the earliest opportunity a joint resolution proposing a Constitutional amendment making the Presidential term six years, with no second term, and the Congressional term three years.

THE CHRONICLE.

BODIE, DECEMBER 13, 1879.

County Official Press.

The CHRONICLE Office is on the second floor of "Goodson's Building," east side of Main street, between Standard and Green streets.

JOHN PARRINO.—Job printing of the finest descriptions will be furnished at this office at Sacramento prices.

LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

THE COUNTY SAFE.—G. B. Tinkum, our County Treasurer, returned from San Francisco, on Sunday last, having visited the Bay City, by direction of the Board of Supervisors, for the purpose of purchasing a burglar proof safe for the Treasurer's office. He purchased one of Hall's burglar and fire-proof safes, weighing 5,710 pounds, with all the latest improvements. The wall of this new safe is 3 1/2 inches thick, with two compartments. The division wall is of the same thickness and material as the outside—both are composed of alternate plates of iron and steel, the corners being of same material, solidly bent, affording no entrance for the chisel of the burglar. All the joints are dovetailed together, and the plates are fastened together with conical shaped bolts, threaded, and of twisted laminated steel and iron, and 8 inches apart. The doors are 3 inches in thickness of same material and construction as body of safe. The bolt work is of the latest patent. It has two 6 tumblers bank locks, and the doors are tongued and grooved, and dovetailed on all four sides with Hall's patent traverse hinge. It has a chronometric time-lock as a final guard over the whole. This fine safe cost $1,500 in San Francisco. The freight will be $300 to Bridgeport, making the total cost to the county, $1,800—less than the San Francisco invoice price, which was $2,180 with the time lock. We congratulate the people of Mono county, that their money will be placed by our worthy Treasurer in a receptacle from which the burglar can extract it not, and Mr. Tinkum is worthy of all praise for driving such a good bargain for the county.

CONSISTENCY.—Last week the News said: "Charity and kindness are almost unknown quantities (qualities) here." What a commentary is this upon the religiously-inclined people, who go about gathering money for the erection of fine churches; who have so elaborate and dinner parties, but not one cent for a human being in need. This week it said: "As an example of how much Bodie people will do for those in need, Ben Miller, our County Clerk-elect, tells us that in company with Ike Phillips, he started out on a tour for subscriptions to bury the dead man. In less than two hours they collected $137 50, with $10 more promised for to-morrow. We relate this circumstance simply to show to the outside world that, notwithstanding the assertions of papers generally to the contrary, Bodie people are generous and kind, even though the Board of Supervisors are heartless and careless of the lives of their constituents." Comment is unnecessary.

A PLEASANT PARTY.—The ball given by Bodie Engine Co. No. 1, at Miners' Union Hall, on Wednesday evening, was very largely attended, but not unpleasantly so. The members of the Company appeared in their new and beautiful uniforms, and made a fine showing. During the evening, Miss Annie Midgely, the "Fire Queen" of the Company, presented the Company a handsome banner of red silk, with the following embroidery on it: "Presented to the Bodie Engine Co. by your 'Fire Queen' Miss Annie Midgely." The banner was presented by Frank Deane, and received by M. P. Wolf, on behalf of his Company. The party was a very pleasant and social affair, and dancing was kept up till about 4 o'clock.

CHRISTMAS.—The ladies connected with the Sabbath School of our town have made arrangements to give a Christmas Tree Festival in Miners' Union Hall on the evening of December 24th—Christmas Eve. We trust that our citizens will be liberal in their assistance to the ladies in their laudable undertaking, that the festival may be successfully carried through, to the enjoyment of our people and the credit of our town.

PIONEER PRESENTS.—In the show window of L. Hollander can be seen three presents to be bestowed as follows: From L. Hollander: A handsome table-caster for the holder of the ticket to be drawn at the ball. From the Pioneers: Two handsome jewel caskets—to be given to the two ladies disposing of the most tickets, the highest having first choice.

ODD FELLOWS' BALL.—We are glad to learn that the Odd Fellows' Ball, to be given at Miners' Union Hall, on Christmas night, promises to be one of the largest and most successful affairs of the kind ever given in Bodie. The music is going to be something extra, and an entire new programme of dances is being arranged.

GOALS.—The snow has disappeared from our streets.

DO LET UP!—Won't our contemporaries give the people a rest. Don't talk so loud about "circulation," and "advertising patronage." You may stir up your creditors, and you may never know where your offices are. We should think that "mum" would be the word with them, after the late report of the amount of mail matter passing through our office, which report showed that the Bodie Chronicle has the largest circulation, through the mails, of any paper published in Bodie, and in the county, outside of Bodie, is larger than all the other papers combined; and in town we are steadily going well-up, and all this without any blowing.

NEW INCORPORATIONS.—The following new companies has been incorporated for Mono county: McKinstry Gold and Silver Mining Company.—to operate in the Bodie District, (Capital, $10,000,000, in shares of $100 each. Directors—Wm. E. Hale, Peter Craig, Wm. Harney, S. C. Ellis and Alex. Craig. Wolford Gold and Silver Mining Company. Capital stock, $5,000,000. Trustees—E. A. Culver, J. J. Scoville, W. B. Townsend, A. F. Carmody and C. P. Chapman.

SODDER CHARGE.—J. I. Ginn, an old journalist of the Pacific Coast, arrived on Thursday and took editorial and business charge of the Standard, and forthwith there were several changes in the workings of that office. Brother Harris, in announcing the change he has made, made a piteous appeal to the public for its support, fearing Bodie will have no representative journal if that paper is not bolstered up. Our respected Brother need not let that fear keep him awake nights, for we think the interests of Bodie and Mono will be well looked after—Standard or no Standard.

SEXT BELOW.—Yesterday, Timothy Cochrane who sustained serious injuries by a blast in the Standard mine a few days ago, was sent to San Francisco, for treatment by an oculist of that city. He has been doing well and it is to be hoped he will not lose his eyesight, as was threatened. His friends collected a large sum from our citizens to defray his expenses at the Bay, thus showing the liberality of the people of Bodie to the unfortunate, the slanders of our morning contemporary to the contrary notwithstanding.

BLACKMAIL.—The Free Press and News say that hereafter they will only notice such mines as are worthy, i.e. they will abandon the time-honored custom of giving weekly reviews. Now it is pertinent to ask which of our contemporaries offered to "write up" certain mines, provided always that certain number of papers were taken at an exorbitant price. We pause for a reply.

WHAT'S OUT?—And now comes our morning contemporary, of the "largest circulation of any paper in Mono county," to expose "fraud and crookedness, and corruption" in mining companies. This time it is a mining Superintendent. Probably taffy didn't make him "tumble to the racket."

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.—Under "New To-Day" will be found the advertisements of Champion Hotel, E. H. Mitchell; Purchasing Agents, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Richardson, San Francisco; John William Moore, insolvent; J. F. Summers, Public Administrator, Notice to Creditors; P. B. Taylor, Sheriff's sales.

ought to know.—The Free Press says: "Taffy" is a great pacifier though, when properly administered." So we knew when the News weakened on the Land Office advertising grab. It howled with rage until the Receiver fed it on taffy. Of course, it is a great pacifier, when properly administered.

PIONEERS.—The Pioneers are to have a banquet on New Year's Eve and a ball on January 8th. The committee on ball is R. M. Folger, Dr. H. B. Davison, Morris Gregory, Edward W. Tracy, and H. M. Harrington; on banquet, Dr. H. B. Davison, Edward W. Tracy, H. M. Harrington and R. M. Folger.

NEW LANDLORD.—E. H. Mitchell has leased Champion Hotel for this winter. Mr. and Mrs. Shafer having concluded to spend the season in San Francisco on account of Mr. Shafer's health. Mr. Mitchell intends to keep the Champion up to the standard it reached under the management of the Shafers.

Snow.—Last Sunday night we had a slight snow fall, which gave us one or two days sleighing. The warm rays of the sun soon dissipated the "beautiful," and now our streets and roads are in a sloppy condition.

PAY YOUR TAXES.—Sheriff Taylor will be in Bodie on the 20th, 21st, 22nd and 24th of December for the purpose of collecting State and county taxes.

THE BODIE MINES.

Boston Cox, Meritt Jones, Supt.

The main incline shaft is down 185 feet—a progress of 11 feet during the week. The ground is easily worked, and is in the best possible condition for making rapid progress. The 200 level will be reached within another week, when the work of exploring the veins on that level will be prosecuted. The Last Chance vein will be reached by a crosscut vein east from the main drift, and the Ben. Butler vein by crosscutting to the west. More extensive incursions are being made to the shaft house, to add conveniences for the workmen, and protection from cold weather and storms.

Jupiter, Porter Holmes, Supt.

Portions of the main south drift are being timbered, and stations for pumps are being cut at the 200 and 400-levels. The east crosscut from the main south drift has cut the east wall six feet, and a crosscut west from this point has been run 43 feet with favorable prospects. This crosscut will be run the entire width of the Jupiter ground, and from present indications Superintendent Holmes looks for important developments at an early day. The pumping machinery is arriving almost daily, and no time will be lost in putting it in position, and as soon as the new pumps are at work the 500-level will be opened.

Maryland Consolidated, J. A. McPherson, Supt.

All life and activity at this mine. Sinking in the new shaft is being pushed forward as fast as the exercise of steel and muscle will permit. Three new shift bosses have been added to the force employed at the mine, and through their able management rapid progress is being made in sinking. The new ledge struck on the 4th inst, yet continues to increase in richness—assays recently made showing from $145 to $168 per ton. Shifts were put at work on the old ledge, in south drift on Tuesday last, and are taking out some very fine grade ore.

Mono, H. Aug. Whiting, Supt.

Connection has been made on the 400 level with the Bodie, thus insuring perfect ventilation. The work is being confined to sinking, but next week the water in the winze on the 400-level will be drained, when work will be resumed in it. The main shaft is down 400 feet, and this week streaks of ore, dipping to the east, and which look encouraging, have been cut. Sinking is going on at the rate of 2 1/2 feet a day, with timbering—which is good work for so large a shaft—5219 feet. The pumps are working nicely and everything at last is going on smoothly.

Ticon, C. H. Golding, Supt.

Main shaft 700 feet. Vein in bottom of shaft is improving as depth is attained. There is some water, which, however, does not interfere with work. The Syndicate drift, in 520-level, is in 612 feet—have got 93 feet to run to connect with the Syndicate main tunnel. East crosscut from Ralston winze, 620-level, has advanced 22 feet during the week, the face being in hard casing, with seams of quartz. The Ralston has obtained a depth of 73 feet below the 620-level, the bottom being in favorable ground which is quite moist.

Bulverine, Porter Holmes, Supt.

A 3 1/2 foot ledge has been cut in the shaft at a depth of 332 feet—52 feet below the 300 level, and it improves as the shaft goes down, assays ranging from $34 50 to $52 50 and $807 50. At the 400-level drifts will be run north and south and crosscuts east and west. This claim is in a good location, being a near neighbor of the Standard, Bodie, etc., and it will be a surprise to our people if it does not bloom into a good paying mine.

Dejance, Porter Holmes, Supt.

The late storms have saturated the ground to such an extent that our mines are beginning to be discommoded by the influx of water, and in this particular the Dejance is getting its share, so that sinking below the 475-level cannot be prosecuted on account of the great body of water coming in. The shaft is down 500 feet. Superintendent Holmes will cut a station and drift from the 475-level, and test the ledge out at the 250-level.

Cos Pacific, Martin Jones, Supt.

Work at this mine on 400-level is being carried on with the usual progress. The north and south drifts are being pushed forward, the north being in 50 feet, and the south, 27 feet. The main shaft has reached a depth of 450 feet, the bottom showing considerable fine quartz, some of which gave fair assays. The progress of work at all points has been fair, although exceedingly hard rock has been encountered in the north drift.

Blackhawk, S. R. Ferguson, Supt.

The shaft is down 512 feet—a progress of 9 feet this week. The bottom is in harder rock than usual, it being in black porphyry, and on this account the progress will be slower until a change is experienced. The east drift at bottom of 150 foot winze on the 320-level is in 66 feet from the winze—a progress of 5 feet for the week. Everything about the mine is working as well as usual.

CHAMPION. L. Hanchett, Supt. Have finished excavation for the foundation for the new pumping machinery. The pumps and boilers are on the ground, and the balance of the machinery will arrive in a few days. The machinery is from the well known Riedon Iron Works, San Francisco, and when in running trim will be on a par with the best in the district.

NOONDAY. John Parham, Supt. Have cut out station at the 512 level, and are putting in the new pump and making the necessary connections with the pipe that arrived on Saturday last. The Noonday mill will be started up on Monday next. The mine is looking well in every particular, and everything about the mine is working well.

UNIVERSITY. D. F. Moore, Supt. Work at this mine is progressing favorably. The shaft has reached a depth of 240 feet. There has been no change in the character of the rock—a hard porphyry. The new self dumping ship works well, assisting very materially in the energetic working of the claim.

CROCKUS. W. D. Ferguson, Supt. The crosscut is in 134 feet east of the shaft, having been run 14 feet this week. The rock is hard in the face. Next week the vein will be cut into. This claim is looking well, and we trust it will in due time develop into a valuable mine.

GOODSHAW. Thomas Puckett, Supt. Shaft is down 520 feet. The new pumping machinery works well and handles the water handily. Next week work will probably be resumed in the winze, on the 450-level, which is down 50 feet.

RED CLIFF. J. I. Holland, Supt. The lateral drift from the 250 level has run into a cross course, but to what length it may go cannot yet be determined. The winze from the same level is in a good ledge.

DUMLEY. Porter Holmes, Supt. The west crosscut, 500 level is in about 30 feet, the face being in hard porphyry, but it is thought it will soon change for the better.

THE CHRONICLE.

BODIE, DECEMBER 13, 1873.

A Wait

The day had been dark and cloudy. But just at the sunset hour Came a gleam of light through the shadows. That fell on our hearts like music. Chasing the shadows away. Till the darkness and gloom around us All fled with the weary day.

And as brightly the crimson sunset Came with its flush of light. And the shadows still lingered. Tringling the gloom of night. So ever I thought, in life's pathway. Though darkened and sad be the days. Yet the sunset, at last that he sendeth Is brightened by heavenly rays.

Danbury News.

A correspondent of the Boston Journal tells the following story of his experience in this city in 1847 or 1848: "I was then a young man just entering business, and had the impudence to allow what little beard nature has blessed me with to grow, not excepting the upper lip. I do not think there were more than two or three men in Boston who dared to wear a mustache, and they were foreigners. One day I had applied to the Washington Bank for a discount. The President was the father of Charles Baldwin, whose residence was at or near the corner of Essex street.

The notes were returned with word that 'nothing was done.' As I thought it strange, and I interviewed the Cashier who referred me to the President. I found him in his room, and, approaching him, I asked why the notes could not be discounted. Raising his eyes and scanning my face, he replied: 'We cannot discount notes for a person who wears a shoe brush on his face.' Argument was useless, and rather than give up the mustache, (which has never been shaved to this day.) I removed my account to another bank.

I acknowledge the corn.—This is the origin of the phrase, 'I acknowledge the corn.' In 1828 A. Stewart, a member of Congress, said in a speech that Ohio, Kentucky and Indiana sent their hay stacks, corn fields and fodder to New York and Philadelphia for sale. Wickliffe, of Kentucky, called him to order, declaring that those States did not send hay stacks or corn fields to New York for sale. 'Well, what do you send?' asked Stewart. 'Why, horses, mules, cattle and hogs.' 'Well, what makes your horses, mules, cattle and hogs?' You feed $100 worth of hay to a horse. You just amaze and get upon the top of your hay stack and ride off to market. How is it with your cattle? You make one of them carry $50 worth of hay and grass to the Eastern market. How much corn does it take, at thirty-three cents a bushel, to fatten a hog? 'Why, thirty bushels.' Then you put that thirty bushels into the shape of a hog, and make it walk off to the Eastern market.' Then Mr. Wickliffe jumped up and said: 'Mr. Speaker, I acknowledge the corn.'

Mistakes.—It is a mistake to think your interlocutor is listening to what you say. He is thinking either of what he has said or is going to say, just as you were and will be. It is a mistake to suppose that everybody is thinking about you. You do so much of that kind of work yourself that you exhaust the subject. It is a mistake to suppose that the dispirited man has had a change of heart. The change is in his liver, if anywhere. It is a mistake to suppose that your friend is consumedly interested in your eloquent description of your liver troubles. On the contrary, he is excessively anxious to tell you of his catarrh.

It is a mistake to suppose that physicians know how to treat your constitutional disorders as well as you do yourself. You know well enough what is best for you, but you dislike to undergo the proper regimen. You employ a doctor, paying him for shouldering the responsibility of your sickness, and handicapping his efforts with all your unhealthy habits and practices.—Boston Transcript.

It is given out that ladies will wear vests precisely like the gentlemen's this winter. When a married man goes to bed he will have to put a chalk-mark on his vest, or next morning he may slip on his wife's and not discover his mistake until he inserts his thumb and forefinger in the right hand pocket for a pinch of snuff and finds nothing but a piece of chewing gum and the stub of a short, black lead pencil. Then he will suddenly remember that there was a roll of ten dollar greenbacks in the left pocket of his vest—that is, if he is an editor he will—and he will rush back home in Mollie McCarty time.

When a certain lady refused, soon after her husband's death, to let the bounds go out, a learned sergeant at law asked Chief Justice X. whether there would be any harm if they were allowed to do so with a piece of crape around their necks. 'I can hardly think,' said the Chief Justice, 'that a piece of crape is necessary. It will surely suffice if they are in full cry.'

Many a young lady is afflicted with heart disease, but only by a young man whose hair is parted in the middle.
